

May 14 - Physios Help Rehabilitate Stroke Patients

Approximately 50,000 Canadians have a stroke each year; 75% of those surviving are left with some level of disability. Post-stroke physiotherapy is an integral part of the rehabilitation treatment plan. It has a positive impact on disability, physical and social function and quality of life. Physiotherapists focus on the recovery of physical function of stroke patients through low risk activities resulting in improved quality of life and patient satisfaction.
