

May 23 - Some Physio Services are Funded Through Your Local Health Authority

Public practice physiotherapists work in diverse settings: in community clinics or hospitals, big cities or small towns, the coast or the interior. Physiotherapists work within an interdisciplinary team to contribute their knowledge and expertise in a number of clinical areas including, but not limited to, musculoskeletal, neurological, spinal cord injury, cardio-respiratory, gerontology, burns, hand therapy, mental health and chronic disease management. You can find these publicly funded physiotherapy services in hospitals, long-term care facilities, mental health & addictions, community home health, child & youth based programs, and ambulatory clinics (to name a few).
