

May 30 - The Physiotherapy Association of British Columbia is celebrating 75 years!

This year, The Physiotherapy Association of British Columbia is celebrating having served its members for 75 years! During this time, PABC has acted as the voice for its members, conducting vital advocacy work and ensuring that members have access to practice support and professional development. PABC continues to work to connect members of the public with members of the association, providing opportunity for people in BC to receive quality physiotherapy that supports lifelong mobility.
